

These lapbook components are not in any particular order. However, they are designed to be filled out AFTER watching the movie.

When Bing Bong was sad, Sadness helped him. How can we help others when we see they are sad?

The box contains five colorful candies: a brown one with a white swirl, a red one with a white swirl, a blue one with a white star, a green one with a white swirl, and an orange one with a yellow swirl.

Cut out flap books and write your opinion on the inside. Glue into lapbook.

when bing bong and joy were trying to escape from the memory dump, why did bing bong jump out of the wagon at the last second?

The box contains a drawing of a red wagon with two yellow wheels and a red handle.

Sadness gave Joy advice she didn't want to hear (not going through Abstract Thought). Cut out the rectangle, fold Joy and Sadness to meet in the middle, and on the inside, write what you think we should do when people we don't like give us advice.

Cut out the large rectangle, and cut on the line between Disgust and Anger. Write your answer under each flap. Cut out the lightning bolt or draw your own under Anger's flap.

What should we do when we notice someone is getting angry at what we are saying? Should we keep going, stop, or say it in a different way? Why?	What should we do when we get angry at what someone says? Blow up, walk away, or something else? Why?

Cut out the memories flap book and write the answer on the inside. Then color the memories to show your answer. If you have a color printer and would rather, you can cut out the one already colored instead and just write the answer on the inside.

Cut out each piece and stack so tabs stick out the side. Staple the packet together.

Name some ways that the gang showed they didn't understand why Sadness was there. Also list some ways she helped, and what we can do when we don't understand someone in our life.

When something bad or traumatic happens, and it feels like joy is completely gone from your life—and you seem to be falling apart inside—what one island of personality cannot be destroyed in the Christian? Cut out the flap book and write your salvation testimony inside.

Cut out rectangle. Fold each side in. Write your answers under each flap.

When we are faced with a difficult situation, how should we handle it? Name someone you would talk to. What would you recommend to give you comfort?		Why was upset when the family member told me I was pregnant, so she decided to steal her things early? How did she think this would solve her problems? What other recommendations would you suggest?
